A Visit from Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh

Which Book Did We Read?:

Louis
by Tom Lichtenheld

Counting Creatures
by Julia Donaldson

OWLS
by Gail Gibbons

Children learn by talking with you. Ask:
Can you think of some animals that are active at night?

We learned a new word:
routine (noun) a series of actions that are part of a performance.
"Seriously, right after we do our show-and-tell routine, I'm history." from Louis by Tom Lichtenheld

Reading Readiness Tip:
Lift-the-flap books are great for print motivation (and not just for toddlers). In fact, any book with moveable parts can encourage children to engage with books, which leads to early literacy. Pop-up books also fall in this category!

Who brought storytime to your class today?

Laura Hughes
Early Learning Outreach Specialist
Ms. Laura loves reading, hiking in the woods and riding her bike with her son. Some of her favorite books are Where the Wild Things Are and The Little Fur Family.

Five Little Owls

Five little owls on a dark, dark night,
With big round eyes, they're quite a sight.
The first little owl has a pointed nose.
The second little owl has claws for toes.
The third little owl has feathers on her back.
The fourth little owl is speckled gray and black.
The fifth little owl winks their big yellow eye.
Then all the little owls let out a cry (WOO!)

Want to know more? carnegielibrary.org